CONFERENCE
2005

The National Collegiate Global Women's and Human Rights Conference will connect the dots between the need to build a national constituency to increase international family planning and health funding aid, to ratify international treaties for human rights and the environment, to combat sweatshops, and to promote non-violence and peace.

Workshops and panels will include student leaders, and leaders in the women's rights, anti-slavery, anti-globalization, human rights, peace, and environmental movements.

Saturday, April 9 – Monday, April 11
